Merchant Land is a London-based development and investment business established in 1994 with a genuinely diverse and inclusive team

Today, Merchant Land's business operations and portfolio are diverse in both scale and scope. Collaboration within the team and a can-do attitude form the foundation of the company's culture, which has paid dividends in extremely high retention figures, with most employees spending an average of 5 years with the business, building their careers from entry level.

This is an entry level role with a genuine opportunity to progress in the mid-term into project and/or asset management as demonstrated by the previous career trajectories of entry level joiners.

The first 12-15 months will be a hands-on junior role as you immerse yourself in the practical, demanding but interesting world of a busy central London based property team. However you will notice quickly that this role also includes exposure to interesting work and projects that the team is undertaking and an opportunity to advance into these areas in time as you build your reputation within the team as a reliable and valued contributor and problem solver
